Review of Comments from Illinois Historic Preservation Agency on Proposed Amendments to the Kendall County Historic Preservation Ordinance; Commission Could Amend the Proposal

The Commission reviewed the proposed amendments and focused on whether or not to have an application fee for non-property owners.

It was noted that other Certified Local Governments have application fees, particularly Geneva.

The consensus of the Commission was to remove the application fee with the intention that a fee could be added at a later date if the application process becomes abused.

Discussion of Historic Preservation Awards

Illinois Centennial Farms Program

The Centennial Farm Program was established to honor the generations of farmers who have worked to maintain family farms in Illinois. Each Centennial Farm designee is a link to America's heritage and a reminder that the family farm remains a viable entity in today's agriculture.

The Illinois Department of Agriculture administers the Centennial Farms Program. Since the program's inception in 1972, the department has certified more than 9,800 farms.

To qualify as a Centennial Farm, an agricultural property must have been owned by a straight or collateral line of descendants of the original owner for at least 100 years. Applicants must complete the application and verification forms found on the following pages. These forms request information regarding the present owner and location of the farm, a listing of ancestral owners and third-party verification of records proving lineal or collateral descent. A recognized title searcher, such as an abstractor, an attorney or a recorder of deeds, can verify lineal descent.

While completion of the application and verification forms is mandatory, completion of the original owner information sheet found on the last page is optional.

Applicants meeting all requirements of the program are notified by mail. The owner receives an official Centennial Farm sign suitable for outdoor display and a certificate bearing signatures of the Governor of Illinois and the Director of the Illinois Department of Agriculture. All application materials and other papers of historical significance are placed on file at the Illinois Department of Agriculture.

Completed application and verification forms, along with an $50 processing fee, should be sent to:
